

Medicare Resources | Get Medicare Help

Description

65Medicare.org was designed with you in mind. Our mission is to turn the overwhelming glut of Medicare information you receive when turning 65 into unbiased, useful resources that are both easy to understand and comprehensive.

Although we have positioned ourselves as, and believe we are, a one-stop shop for Medicare and Medigap information for someone turning 65, we also wanted to provide a comprehensive list of Medicare resources.

Enrolling in Medicare

Application for Enrollment in Medicare Part B \(pdf\) â?? use this .pdf document to apply for Medicare Part B if you already have Medicare Part A and just need to add Medicare Part B.

Apply Online for Retirement/Medicare Benefits â?? go to this website to get started on applying for Social Security and/or Medicare benefits.

Medicare Resources â?? General

Complete Medicare Guide for People Turning 65 â?? this is the all-encompassing guide to starting on Medicare, created by 65Medicare.org Owner Garrett Ball. It has information about Medicare itself â?? coverage, plan options, and all details needed to avoid penalties, mistakes and make informed, educated decisions.

Medicare.gov Home Page â?? this is Medicareâ??s main website homepage, the most vital of the Medicare resources. From here, you can research/compare Medicare Part D prescription drug plans and get answered to commonly asked questions.

MyMedicare.gov â?? this is Medicareâ??s secure, free, personalized site for accessing personal information about your Medicare benefits â?? i.e. claims histories/status, benefit/plan information, etc.

Medicare and Dental Care â?? this is one of Medicareâ??s resources about whether, and to what extent, Medicare covers dental services/procedures.

Does Medicare Cover Preventive Care â?? this is one of several Medicare resources that covers this topic. It details the preventive care services that Medicare covers and the frequency at which they are covered.

IRMA \(Income-Related Monthly Adjustments\) for Part B and Part D â?? this page on Social Securityâ??s website details who pays the IRMA amounts for Medicare Parts B and D. These are the income-related monthly premium adjustments for Part B and Part D.

Medicare and Long-Term Care â?? this is one of several Medicare resources showing information about Medicareâ??s limited coverage of long-term care.

Medicare Resources for Part D

How to Compare Medicare Part D plans â?? this is our useful Medicare Part D resource that walks you through exactly how to conduct a Part D comparison on Medicareâ??s website.

Extra Help for Prescription Drug Costs \(Part D\) â?? if you qualify financially, you may be eligible for â??extra helpâ?• on Part D prescription drug costs. This page has more information about who qualifies and how.

Medigap Resources

â??Choosing a Medigap Policyâ?• booklet from Medicare â?? one of the Medicare resources published annually, â??Choosing a Medigap Policyâ?• is a booklet with information about Medigap plans that are offered and how they work.

Medigap Coverage Chart â?? this is the all-important Medigap coverage chart, which shows the Federally-standardized plans that all companies must go by.

AM Best ratings subscription service â?? AM Best is an independent rating service of insurance companies. This is their website, from which you can access ratings of Medicare Supplement companies that you may be considering. Incidentally, it is advisable NOT to sign up for any subscription service (unless itâ??s free) as the AM Best information should be readily available from brokers/agents.

Turning 65 Roadmap â?? this is the go-to turning 65 guide for people approaching the age of 65. Use this guide to navigate the Medicare maze and make an informed choice.

Why Use a Medigap Broker? â?? read about the benefits and advantages to using a Medigap broker to compare Medicare plans

Contact 65Medicare.org to Get Medigap Quotes â?? once you have an understanding of most of these Medicare resources and are ready to take your next step, get Medigap quotes or contact us by phone
